

How to hire a nanny

The decision to return to work after having children is often a hard one and finding appropriate child care is not an easy process. To make the transition back to work as smooth as possible for both you and your family why not approach an agency to do all the hard work for you.

What does an agency do?

An agency provides a professional service and is available for valuable advice: especially for those Mum's returning to work and leaving the first child or not having the experience of employing a nanny before. All mums experience the same anxiety and a good agency will be aware of this and try to match candidates to your requirements along with making the process as easy as possible.

What are the costs?

Agencies will charge a placement fee for introducing a suitable candidate to the family. It takes time to thoroughly screen candidates, interviewing, checking references and carrying out a working with children check so that the agency can be assured they are only referring good quality candidates to the family.

Want more?

For further advice or to see a full list of jobs, log onto www.the-sg-group.com.au
T 02 8270 7171

Positively different
Specialists in marketing recruitment

With the agency the placement fee is not paid until you feel comfortable with your choice of candidate. You also have the possibility of a trial day to see the interaction of the nanny and your child to feel completely at ease before you make the final choice and confirm a start date.

Where can I get more information?

The SG Group recommends Milestonz Nannies as a first port of call. Jan from Milestonz can provide advice on any type of child care need whether it be to discuss the pros and cons of nannies over day care or trying to weigh up the affordability of a nanny.

Jan always endeavors to give helpful advice and alternatives. Follow up with families is high on her list of priorities both during the process of finding a nanny and during the settling period after the start date.

To contact Jan at Milestonz Nannies please phone 9960 6501 or 0415 095 718. You can also pick up some more information regarding Milestonz from The SG Group.

